Israel Discount Bank Implements Integral BankFX Workflow Automation & Trading Technology

PALO ALTO (Wednesday, 19 February 2020) – Israel Discount Bank announced today that it has partnered with Integral to deploy new eFX workflow automation and trading technology to drive business growth.

Israel Discount Bank needed a solution for their eFX business which would allow them to improve flexibility and extend their reach over different trading channels. Integral BankFX was selected for the platform's customizable technology, which allowed Israel Discount Bank to deliver a bespoke end-to-end FX solution to service existing clients and new business.

The feature rich platform offered Israel Discount Bank with full automation of their entire eFX workflow and the ability to trade with clients over multiple distribution platforms, including a bespoke and fully branded single dealer trading platform and integration with all leading multi-dealer platforms.

Harpal Sandhu, CEO at Integral said, "Working with Israel Discount Bank, we deployed an e-FX solution that was completely customizable and allowed them to deliver a fully bespoke service to their clients. We are pleased to extend our partnership with Israel Discount Bank and offer scalable eFX technology to meet their evolving needs."

Asaf Pasternak, Head of Capital Markets at Israel Discount Bank, said, "We partnered with Integral having sought technology that allowed us to differentiate our FX offering through customization and met the high level of service our clients expect. Our established partnership with Integral meant we were extremely confident we could extend our use of their network to meet our clients' trading needs whenever and wherever necessary."
