

Integral adds Lloyds to its global liquidity network

Palo Alto, London, July 2, 2026 – Integral, a leading currency technology provider to financial markets, today announced that Lloyds has joined its ecosystem as a liquidity provider, further strengthening its institutional FX network.

Integral’s global clients gain access to Lloyds’ FX pricing across key currency products, increasing pricing depth, execution quality and workflow efficiency through a single technology stack. The addition strengthens liquidity across major currency pairs, supporting price formation and execution across a range of trading strategies.

Sarika Jajoo, Head of Electronic Distribution, Global Markets at Lloyds, commented:

“2026 marks an important milestone for Lloyds’ electronic FX franchise, with strong volume growth as we enter the next phase of our platform strategy. Through our seamless integration with Integral, we are expanding access to Lloyds’ liquidity for corporate and institutional clients operating sophisticated automated global FX workflows.”

Harpal Sandhu, CEO of Integral, said: “The addition of Lloyds to the Integral network further strengthens the range of liquidity available to our clients. Their participation reinforces our commitment to bringing together meaningful sources of liquidity across venues, asset classes, and ecosystems on a single platform, so our clients gain even greater value from using our technology.”
